This new series of paintings represents a visual tribute to the private paradise on the Earman River in North Palm Beach where I have lived for the past 35 years. A pair of large oak trees twisted with age and dozens of palm trees dominate the lush tropical landscape. Each evening the back yard and river are flooded with brilliant light, cloud formations, and reflections. Capturing those vibrant moments became the focus of my exhibition. The paintings seem to relate and connect as they tell the story of my environment and life.
